Jonathan has been a leader in transportation for 19 years. Before launching IntraVex, Shaver worked on parcel carrier technology initiatives within Pitney Bowes' Strategic Marketing staff. Shaver received his BS from the University of Missouri and MBA from Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management. He is on the Freight Transportation and Consultant Association's Executive Board and is a member of the Parcel Shippers Association & Council of Supply Chain Management. He has served as a columnist for PARCEL magazine and speaks at various industry conferences. Shaver serves various community and non-profit organizations, including being on the Board of Global Alliance for Africa.

The IntraVex management team includes various executives from the asset-based parcel carriers with expertise in parcel carrier pricing and information technology.

ABOUT OUR COMPANY

IntraVex is a technology company providing Business Process Outsourcing through a unique set of transportation data and statistical services. IntraVex enables shippers of all types to reduce costs by providing customer-specific solutions that go beyond traditional audit services.

We unite shippers' raw transportation, order and billing data and convert it into useful business intelligence that increases savings and achieves the highest rates of return on investment.

Our unique value is that we reduce our clients' spend on all modes of transportation by providing deeper visibility to data with analysis tools that increase their knowledge of all aspects of shipping.

We convert traditional third-party freight audit programs to data-intensive transportation financial services.

Our sourcing tools and support allow customers to benchmark, procure and document savings with transportation contracts.

Our statistical approach to the complexities of transportation spend enhances a company's accountability and enables a direct link between freight spend and corporate profitability metrics. This can include the execution for freight accrual reporting, freight to sales by sales channel or business and freight profitability metrics.

The IntraVex five-step approach will:

- Aggregate data from all carrier and customer systems
- Synchronize the process to provide a consolidated audited and allocated carrier bills
- Integrate the information back into the client's system for efficient cost recognition and settlement
- Analyze the information for cost savings initiatives and mining to measure KPIs
- Enable customers to improve critical aspects of their shipping programs to maximize overall company success.
