Addobox — The Next Chapter in Automated Parcel Delivery and Omni-Channel Solutions

Artitalia Group's and Parcel Port's new locker offering is a versatile, turn-key parcel locker solution that looks to revolutionize first and last-mile delivery. Be it indoor or outdoor, the Addobox is a seamless solution for many environments. E-commerce companies can get orders and parcels out to their clients quickly and efficiently, and courier companies can streamline their last-mile delivery process for convenient customer experience across multiple industries.

The Addobox offers clients an added level of convenience while providing businesses with a cost-effective alternative to deliveries. It features cameras and security measures for safety and peace of mind, making the Addobox perfect for housing returns, rendering them easy and hassle-free. Digital signage solutions are also available to promote your brand or sell advertising through your vendor network.

Designed and manufactured in North-America, the Addobox includes state-of-the-art hardware, locker & cloud software and support services. The hardware is attractively built and expandable, based on each customer's requirements. The locker software features an easy-to-use interface with visual and audio prompts and supports single scan technology for super-fast drop-offs and pickups. Ready to get started? Good. So are we.
