

Automated Packaging Pays Back BIG.

Quadient is a leading provider of automated packaging solutions that provide revolutionary auto-boxing technology to optimize all steps of package fulfillment. Its two models, CVP Impact and CVP Everest, offer savings on shipping and materials costs, decrease reliance on labor, and aid in sustainability efforts.

These fit-to-size auto-boxing technologies measure, construct, seal, weigh, and label variable dimension single- or multi-item orders of either hard or soft goods in one seamless process while eliminating or reducing the need for void fill material. The systems make fulfillment faster, more reliable, and more efficient than ever before and can be utilized in a variety of industries, including e-commerce, retail, third-party logistics (3PL), wholesale, and manufacturing. Auto-boxing improves the customer experience while solving many of today's shippers' biggest pain points.

The CVP Impact packs up to 500 parcels per hour and requires only one operator while the CVP Everest packs up to 1,100 parcels per hour and uses two operators, meeting social distancing requirements and creating greater efficiencies in the warehouse. The solutions also offer a more sustainable fulfillment process. The CVP Impact seals parcels with tape on only two sides while the CVP Everest uses a patented gluing system to affix a custom-fit lid to each box. This allows the solutions to be considered a reuse/recycling program initiative as the corrugate can be 100% recycled and the boxes can be reused for returns or other items, which also enhances the customer experience.

With these auto-boxing technologies, shippers can:

- ▶ Reduce shipping volume by an average of 50%
- ▶ Save an average of 88% in packing labor as the solutions can replace up to 20 manual packing stations
- ▶ Eliminate box inventory SKUs and save an average of 30% in corrugate material
- ▶ Greatly reduce DIM weight costs to save more on transportation and shipping
- ▶ Achieve a full return on investment in as little as 6 to 18 months
